EDITOR'S LETTER

We know how much you, our readers, love this annual Returning Favorites issue. It's one of the year's bestsellers, and the volume of our reader emails shoots up dramatically right after you've had a chance to dig into all the updates about your favorite shows. Once viewers get attached to a series, their passion rarely wanes. We saw that especially this year when we put Christopher Meloni on the cover in the spring for his return to the Law & Order franchise as the lead in Organized Crime. Viewers missed the partnership of Benson and Stabler (Mariska Hargitay and Meloni) on Law & Order: SVU and have been excited to see them back together again in the numerous crossovers. So, we talked to the stars for our cover story, and, yes, we asked them if their characters' professional relationship would get any more personal. Check out the story on page 22 to see what they both had to say!

And a note about our What's Worth Watching section: In Fall Preview and this Returning Favorites issue, we didn't run the WWW section so we could make room for all the special new-season show coverage. We also know WWW is the best day-to-day TV coverage you can find anywhere! The section will be back for the long term next issue.

BLOODY BRILLIANT! Dexter coming back to TV is just what the doctor ordered [Dexter: New Blood, Fall Preview, page 23]! After the Showtime drama's not-great final season, I really hope the writers can do right by the incredible actor Michael C. Hall. Time will tell! —David

GETTIN' HOT Season 1 of The Hot Zone on National Geographic was riveting. I had no idea there were plans to do another season, and I can't wait to hear more [Fall Preview, page 25]! —Angela

REPEAT CITY? More FBI, more NCIS, CSI, even Chucky, Doogie Howser and The Wonder Years are getting fresh takes. Is it just me, or is everything old new again this fall? I'll be tuning in to a few of these regardless of their originality, but I'm also particularly waiting to see what fresh ideas we'll have on broadcast this season. —Nancy

SECRET FAN As someone who is embarrassingly obsessed with The Masked Singer, I will be looking forward to the newest competition, Alter Ego, on Fox [Fall Preview, page 37]. Bring it on! —Lisa

MATT ROUSH:
Sandra Oh was able to film the six episodes of The Chair between seasons of Killing Eve.

But prepare yourself, because Eve's fourth season, which went into production this summer, will be the last. Even so, this wild spy series put Comer on the map, winning her an Emmy, so you're sure to be seeing a lot more of her on the big and small screen. (She's currently costarring in the hit Ryan Reynolds movie Free Guy, and I look forward to seeing what she does next.)

I was shocked by the ending of the most recent season of the great Masterpiece Mystery! series Unforgotten. I've read that it'll be returning, but will it have a whole new cast? I can't imagine it continuing without Nicola Walker. —C.F.

MATT ROUSH: Spoiler alert! Unforgotten will be back for a fifth season on PBS, continuing without Walker as cold-case team leader Cassie Stuart. (She was killed off in the season finale after a car accident.) As in reality, life goes on, even after losing someone near and dear, and her partner Sunny Khan (Sanjeev Bhaskar) will step up as the series lead.

I'll be curious to see if they bring on a new cast member to play opposite him, but it will be hard for anyone to follow Walker, who could hardly have hoped for a more emotional send-off.

I give Schmigadoon! on Apple TV+ a standing ovation! Any word yet on a second season for this movie-musical parody? I think it is perfect, and there are so many musicals yet to be "referenced." —Sharon R.

MATT ROUSH: Apple has yet to green-light a new season of this inspired musical spoof, but I'd also love to see more. The show's creator and gifted songwriter, Cinco Paul, has said he already has an idea for a continuation that would once again include the characters of Melissa (Cecily Strong) and Josh (Keegan-Michael Key), last seen attempting to step away from the magically tuneful village. I'm hopeful because Eve's fourth season, which went into production this summer, will be the last. Even so, this wild spy series put Comer on the map, winning her an Emmy, so you're sure to be seeing a lot more of her on the big and small screen. (She's currently costarring in the hit

That's a new uniform for Hightown's Jackie Quiñones. In the second season of Starz's dark crime drama (premiering October 17), the Cape Cod-based National Marine Fisheries Service agent (played by Chicago Fire alum Monica Raymund) is promoted to the Massachusetts State Police. With the drug kingpin she holds responsible for her best friend's overdose recently released from jail, now she can go after him in a more official manner.

ED ASNER (1929–2021)

SOMETIMES IT ONLY takes a moment to become a TV icon. For Ed Asner, that moment arrived in 1970 during the first episode of The Mary Tyler Moore Show, when Lou Grant acknowledged new hire Mary Richards' spunk, then took a beat before growling, "I hate spunk."

He didn't, really. Gruff on the surface that masked a soft heart in spirit, Asner as Lou epitomized the archetype TV GUIDE MAGAZINE once called "the lovable sourpuss." Asner, who died in his sleep on August 29 at 91, earned his spot in TV history as the first actor to win Emmys in comedy and drama for the same role in two series: three for the MTM sitcom and twice for its hourlong spinoff, Lou Grant.

HOW TO...

Watch NFL Games Without Cable

Giving up cable doesn't mean forfeiting your football games. We've fielded some of your options for keeping up on this NFL season, so get ready to head back to the gridiron (from the comfort of your couch, of course).

What You Need

A smart TV is your best bet—though many of this season's games will be shown on CBS, NBC and Fox (not to mention Super Bowl LVI, airing on NBC next February), for the NFL Network and ESPN matchups, you'll need an internet-connected device, which also includes a computer, smartphone or tablet.

For Most Games

For many, streaming services offer a cheaper-than-cable option for watching live NFL games, as well as other standard television programming. Some of the most popular services are Sling TV ($35 per month), AT&T TV ($70 per month), fuboTV ($65 per month) and Hulu Plus Live TV ($65 per month). These services all provide the broadcast networks, but make sure you choose a plan with NFL Network too if you want all of the games. You can also check to see if the nonprofit Locast service, which broadcasts network TV over the internet, is available in your area ($5 monthly voluntary donation) to score a really great price.

HOW TO... USE CLOUD DVR

Cord cutters, you can still record your favorite shows—no “real” DVR needed! If you’re paying for a live-TV subscription to AT&T TV, fuboTV, Hulu Plus Live TV or Sling TV, then cloud DVR is included (extended storage space may cost extra). In most cases, when you select a show, a “Record” option will appear on the info page. Choose if you want to record all, or just new episodes. Either way, you won’t miss out on the many shows returning this fall (see page 22). —JH

For Thursday Nights

This season, Thursday Night Football streams on Prime Video (plans start at $9 per month) while simultaneously airing on NFL Network and Fox (with the exception of Thanksgiving games, which will air on the broadcast networks). But next season, TNF will air exclusively on Prime, so plan accordingly.

Or Simply Antenna Up

No more wrapping tinfoil around rabbit ears! Modern antennas can pick up signals from far away and provide a crisp picture on your TV, so those games will look crystal-clear. For example, the Mohu Leaf Fifty (right) gives you 60 miles for $60—more than enough to catch the broadcast-network games in your area. —John Hogan

Scenes From a Marriage

A wrenching dissection of a rocky relationship has all the emotions

Sundays, 9/8c, HBO

JONATHAN AND MIRA were meant for each other. Until they weren't. Or were they ever? Love means never being able to truly let go, even when it's all over, in writer-director Hagai Levi's (In Treatment, The Affair) devastating five-part adaptation of Swedish filmmaker Ingmar Bergman's acclaimed 1973 miniseries.

Working with playwright Amy Herzog, Levi constructs many of these episodic "scenes"—which play out over several turbulent years—as an explosively emotional one-act drama, largely taking place in the couple's deceptively cozy Massachusetts home. We watch the brilliant stars (Oscar Isaac and Jessica Chastain, at the soul-baring top of their game) approach the soundstage as they get into character, exposing the artifice before subjecting us to a wrenching series of confrontations and difficult no-going-back conversations. These unnervingly intimate dark nights of the shattered psyche feel all too raw, honest and real.

The quieter Marriage gets, the deeper the pain as the analytical Jonathan, a philosophy professor, tries to understand the restlessness and dissatisfaction of Mira, a rising tech executive, 10 years into what's seen by all as a successful relationship (with an adorable, usually offscreen daughter). The mood can shift with disorienting speed from tenderness and sorrow to sensuality and cruelty and, at its worst, violent rage. Even as the two draw apart, they often cling to each other, roiled by their confusing and contradictory feelings.

The actors' incredible emotional transparency provides a textbook illustration of irreconcilable differences. They amaze and puzzle, infuriate and stimulate each other. We've often heard that the heart wants what it wants, but what about when it doesn't?

At different times, each character makes a dramatic and climactic exit to rival that of Nora in Ibsen's classic A Doll's House. It's an acting tour de force, to be sure, impossible to look away from even when it's almost too difficult to watch.

When Jonathan admits, "I'll never love anybody the way that I loved you," years after the histrionic dust settles and the mutual bitterness has ebbed, there's a deep sadness to the realization. This is a love story that's all about saying you're sorry—for not opening up enough when it mattered, and for opening up too much and saying things that can never be unheard. **★★★★★

AS PUNCHY AS its charismatic subject, so full of twists and turns that it earns a "To be continued..." teaser after each episode, Ken Burns' majestic four-night portrait of legendary boxer Muhammad Ali delivers a knockout of sheer narrative power. Celebrating his crowd-pleasing bravado and achievements but never ignoring his cruel jabs and taunts in and out of the ring, Ali is a fully rounded, colorfully compelling portrait of a controversial and complex public figure.

His life touches on themes common to Burns' work: race, faith, sports and what it means to be an American. Ali was a lightning rod for ire when he joined the Nation of Islam, changed his name and sat out the Vietnam War on moral grounds. But when his battered body and brain eventually got the best of him, silencing "the Louisville Lip," the world rallied around him as "the Greatest." A perfect fit for our greatest documentarian. **★★★★

Impeachment: American Crime Story

Tuesdays, 10/9c, FX

I KEEP HEARING from people who lived through the Bill Clinton-Monica Lewinsky political sex scandal that they have no desire to witness these tawdry events again. Weren't the Saturday Night Live parodies enough?

And yet, as with Crime Story's previous installments (on the O.J. Simpson trial and the murder spree of Gianni Versace's killer), there's a seriousness of purpose and such impressive acting and writing that it goes beyond tabloid sensation. The distracting prosthetics transforming Sarah Paulson into the villainous Linda Tripp, Annaleigh Ashford as poignantly out-of-her-depth Paula Jones and a pitch-perfect Clive Owen as President Clinton carry the whiff of a reenactment stunt. But as the naive, lovestruck and, yes, entitled Lewinsky (a producer on this project), Beanie Feldstein gives a heartbreaking and revelatory performance that helps make Impeachment a riveting indictment of everyone on all sides of this, shall we say, affair.

By the time Monica learns her friend Linda, a narcissistic ogre bristling with unearned self-importance, taped their conversations about her one-sided romance with POTUS, the levels of betrayal and political manipulation go off the charts. I wasn't crazy about watching this either, but I am not sorry I did. **★★★★★

Only Murders in the Building

Tuesdays, Hulu

LEAVE IT TO the experts—what fun would that be? This fitfully amusing, not-quite-madcap farce finds its humor in the clueless bumbling and serendipitous gotchas of three true-crime-podcast buffs. They form a fractious friendship while taking center stage in their own murder mystery, investigating a suspicious death at their deluxe Manhattan apartment building.

Series cocreator Steve Martin is the most endearing as Charles, a forlorn, has-been actor who once played a ridiculously rugged detective on TV and feels revived by the thrill of the hunt. Fellow comedy superstar Martin Short has the most fun. As flamboyant has-been theater director Oliver, he tries to stage-manage everyone, even suspects including Sting (as himself) and Nathan Lane (as a wealthy neighbor). As never-was moody millennial Mabel, who may know more than she's letting on, Selena Gomez deadpans effectively but often deadens the pace of an overlong misadventure that might have made a snappier movie. Still, watching Oliver lambaste Charles' (and by extension, Martin's) acting is anything but amateur hour. **★★★☆☆

RETURNING FAVORITES

The shows you love are back with a bang—also a baby, a Bill & Ted spoof and so much romance. Will Law & Order deliver on that front?

Hargitay's Benson and SVU Deputy Chief Garland (Demore Barnes)

Mariska Hargitay and Christopher Meloni get it. Law & Order fans have spent two decades clamoring for their characters—Special Victims Unit's Capt. Olivia Benson and Organized Crime's Det. Elliot Stabler—to get together. There's too much chemistry for the former NYPD partners not to, right?

"It's undefinable, but you know it when you feel it," Meloni says of the pair's magic, adding, "For me personally, one of its main cornerstones is humor." Hargitay concurs, adding, "I think the mutual love, respect, chemistry and trust between these two characters creates a unique bond."

The stars couldn't resist playfully trolling the #Bensler community in late August by posting a provocative "rehearsal" pic of a near-kiss between the characters. Their bantering tweets ("It's getting hot in here," she commented) only inflamed the frenzy. And the dream of a more romantic bond seems at least possible now that Meloni, after a decade away, has returned as the tragically widowed Stabler on SVU's Thursday mate, Organized Crime.

Heightening the excitement, last season Stabler blurted "I love you"—seemingly to Benson—as she and his children staged an intervention to get him to deal with his PTSD over the loss of his wife, Kathy. "It was deliberately [left] open to interpretation," the actor says, admitting that the "rich, unexpected" scene was one of his favorites. In fact, Organized Crime's scripts have been subtly advancing the relationship: Meloni acknowledges that the two are playing "deeply emotional and deeply connected scenes that were not part of our [original] relationship on SVU."

"Everyone is working very hard," he adds, "to create an authentic, satisfying and difficult journey for these two people." Could that journey take a major step this season? "#Staytuned," teases Hargitay. Meanwhile, here's what you will definitely be seeing.

LAW & ORDER: SPECIAL VICTIMS UNIT

Season 23 ushers in SVU's extraordinary 500th episode later this fall, with the promise of some familiar faces to mark the occasion. Hargitay, the sole remaining original cast member of the sex crimes procedural, is still going strong as well. Even with a recent broken knee, a fractured ankle and a torn ligament, the trooper hasn't missed an episode. "My injury is written into Olivia's story, but true to her character, it doesn't slow her down in the least," the actress says, adding, "You might see her behind a desk now and again."

The two-hour premiere revisits Dr. Catalina Machado (Zabryna Guevara), the supposed Good Samaritan who was moonlighting as a sex trafficker. In a meeting with ADA Sonny Carisi (Peter Scanavino), she flips on her coconspirators, offering to expose a congressman. "The case continues with Benson and her squad going after bigger fish, who are decidedly more dangerous and difficult to apprehend," Hargitay explains. "Like any good SVU episode, there's a big twist at the end."

In the same episode, the captain is attacked by an unknown assailant. Is the assailant connected to jailed crime boss Richard Wheatley (Dylan McDermott), the ruthless big bad from Season 1 of Organized Crime? "That's a working theory," Hargitay says. "As usual in Wheatley's world, it's difficult to know what's really going on."

Also upcoming: an episode about a nightclub singer (Herizen Guardiola) who is abused by her mob-connected boss, Gabe Navarro (Rhys Coiro). In the "heartbreaking" hour, Hargitay shares, "Olivia comes to her aid when no one else will help her." That's what puts her at odds with the team on Organized Crime, which is conducting its own investigation into Navarro, based on the work done by Stabler and the unit's chief, Ayanna Bell (Danielle Moné Truitt).

Sept. 23, 8/7c, NBC

LAW & ORDER: ORGANIZED CRIME

We'll learn in the season premiere whether Angela Wheatley (Tamara Taylor)—who was growing closer to Stabler...before he learned of her role in Kathy's murder—survives the latest attempted hit to keep her from testifying against her ex-husband, Richard.

With him put away, the Kosta Organization, headed by Jon Kosta (Michael Raymond-

Meloni calls Jones' Albi, part of the Kosta Organization, "sociopathic"

James, Big Sky), has taken over the drug business. "I'd say his easygoing nature belies his lethality," Meloni says. The Organized Crime Control Bureau goes to work, sending a bearded Stabler undercover using the alias of an arsonist known as "Ashes." (This is the first of three major arcs this season. In the others, Mykelty Williamson stars as a powerful kingpin, and Wheatley reappears and is featured prominently.)

Instead of the brutal Kosta or his underboss, "Uncle" Albi Briscu (Vinnie Jones, Arrow), Stabler cozies up to Reggie Bodgani (Dash Mihok, Ray Donovan), a more vulnerable player. "It's an interesting relationship," the actor reveals. "There are certain insecurities that he carries with him. He's my boss, yet I'm his father figure." Adding to the danger: A simultaneous Narcotics Division investigation could threaten Stabler's undercover identity.

On a more personal level, longtime fans will recognize guest star Ellen Burstyn, who won a 2009 Emmy for her portrayal of Stabler's bipolar mother, Bernadette. Battling medical issues, including her failing mental acuity, she asks to see her estranged son. "We have to come together as a family and weather the storm," Meloni says.

Will they? "It's complicated, isn't it?" That's a yes, for everything in the Bensler universe. —Leanne Rudolph

THE NEIGHBORHOOD

Surprising DNA results = an OMG moment

If Calvin Butler (Cedric the Entertainer) thought Dave Johnson (Max Greenfield) was too close for comfort before, wait until this bombshell drops! On Season 4 of the sitcom, Dave takes a genealogy test, revealing the neighbors are distant cousins. "Calvin is less than thrilled," says showrunner Meg DeLoatch, who previews what else is new on their California block.

- Morning sickness? Dave's pregnant wife, Gemma (Beth Behrs), is ill 24/7, says DeLoatch. Cue the toilet humor!
  - Calvin adds "pimp-my-ride pro" to his résumé as his auto shop gets into high-end design, while wife Tina's (Tichina Arnold) side-hustle baking business finds success. Also, conflict mediator Dave takes on a celebrity divorce that "puts him on Hollywood's radar," DeLoatch adds.
  - We finally meet troubled local (and butt of many a joke) "Crackhead Victor," via an intervention, says DeLoatch: "Everyone tries to get Victor back on track." —Jim Halterman

THE GOOD DOCTOR

Home from abroad, the docs adjust to a new normal at St. Bonaventure

Season 4's medical mission to a rural Guatemalan clinic changed the lives of many grateful patients and the St. Bonaventure surgical team. The empathetic Claire Browne (Antonia Thomas) found her purpose in staying in Central America, while trauma surgeon Mateo Rendón Osma (Mexican star Osvaldo Benavides) has accepted a position in San Jose, California, working with Shaun Murphy (Freddie Highmore) and Co. Presumably, Osma's legal issues—an outstanding warrant related to pot possession during his residency in the U.S.—get handled! Look for Osma's connection with PTSD-suffering Audrey Lim (Christina Chang) to continue. Says exec producer David Shore, "[He's] a new face, a new perspective, a new opportunity—for Lim, for Shaun, for the hospital."

Helping Shaun save a baby in Guatemala allowed Lea Dilallo (Paige Spira) to accept her miscarriage, and she proposed. In the premiere, their upcoming engagement party has everyone feeling festive. Odd couple Morgan Reznick (Fiona Gubelmann) and Alex Park (Will Yun Lee) are—surprisingly—"still good," Shore adds. Meanwhile, both Aaron Glassman (Richard Schiff) and Marcus Andrews (Hill Harper) are "trying to cope" with broken marriages, "and taking very different approaches to their losses," continues Shore, who leaves us with this cryptic tease: "A major challenge to all of our characters—particularly Shaun—comes from within."

9-1-1

It's the night the lights went out in L.A.! Season 5 of the first-responders drama opens with the City of Angels severely dimmed following a ransomware attack affecting the power grid. No electricity, no GPS, no cell service... all problems. Showrunner Tim Minear explains this bright idea.

Where do we pick up?

Instead of the disaster playing out chronologically, "you're coming in about four or five days into the event," explains Minear. He says the opening segment is "maybe my favorite two minutes we've ever done. It feels like Jumanji had a baby with Jurassic Park, and it's all happening on Hollywood Boulevard." Things then roll back to the hours before the outage.

What mayhem ensues?

Imagine the worst of what can occur when a city is plunged into darkness: cars crashing, criminals escaping, says Minear: "What happens when everyone's GPS gets attacked at the same time and you're just doing what your car tells you to do?"

Where is Athena in all of this?

After literally walking through fire to save firefighter husband Bobby (Peter Krause) from a sniper, the heroic police sergeant (Angela Bassett) revisits a darker part of her past as the serial rapist (Noah Bean) who attacked her in Season 3 heads to trial. "But when the city goes insane, he takes advantage of that," Minear says. Uh-oh.

How is Maddie doing?

The 9-1-1 operator and new mom played by Jennifer Love Hewitt quit her job at the end of last season to deal with her mental health. "Poor Maddie is going through postpartum depression while the world is ending yet again," Minear says. With firefighter beau

Chimney (Kenneth Choi) busy during the blackout, "she's very isolated and things take a slightly dangerous turn for her."

Will there be another crossover with spinoff 9-1-1: Lone Star?

"We have been talking about that," hints Minear, who says he's eyeing an event sometime midseason. —Damian Holbrook

Burning Questions

BOB ❤ ABISHOLA

The couple's postponed wedding is finally happening...in Nigeria!

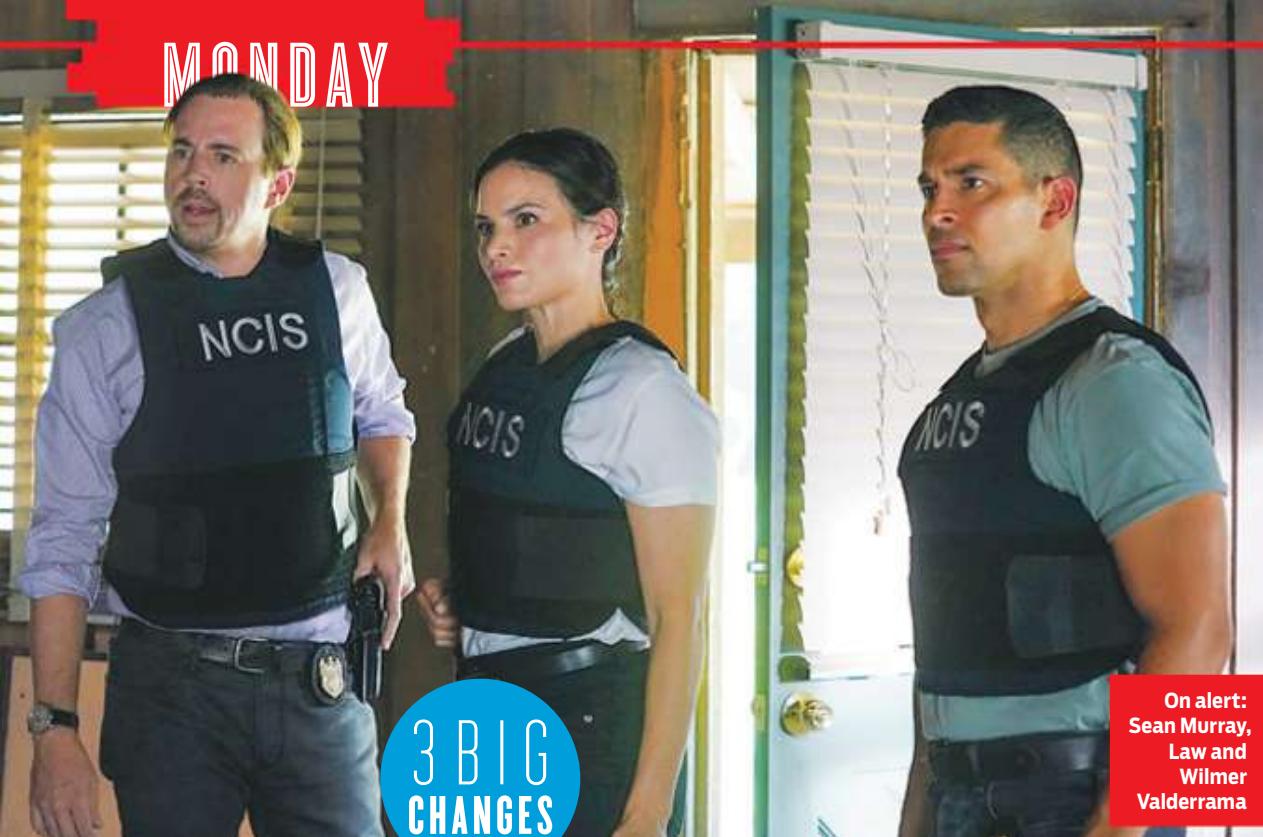

Hear that sound? It's wedding bells—all the way from Africa! The sitcom's second season ended with sock maker Bob (Billy Gardell) flying with fiancée Abishola (Folake Olowofoyeku) to her native land to get her son, Dele (Travis Wolfe Jr.), whose dad wouldn't let him travel back to the U.S. But while overseas, "they realize they're going to have to get married, and they're going to get married in Nigeria," says cocreator Gina Yashere, who also plays Abishola's friend Kemi. The event, Yashere continues, "is going to be super colorful with fantastic music." And fireworks: Expect culture clashes as Bob's family, the Wheelers, arrive, plus feuding between Abishola's mom (Saidah Arrika Ekulona) and aunt (Shola Adewusi).

Upon the newlyweds' return to Detroit, Abishola moves into the Wheeler home. "Bob gives her carte blanche to decorate how she wants," Yashere says, "and that rubs some people within the Wheeler family the wrong way." Of course it does.... —Linda Malek

NCIS

This is the NCIS headline we've all been waiting for: "The first episode is getting the band back together," says executive producer Steven D. Binder of the military procedural's 19th installment. Which means former special agent in charge Leroy Jethro Gibbs (Mark Harmon, reportedly appearing in significantly fewer episodes)—last seen in the wreckage of his bombed boat—reunites with his team in an Ozarks-like environment to solve a mystery. What's Gibbs' status? "He either comes back and he's an agent or we make permanent his separation," Binder says. That question dominates the first four episodes, devoted to one case. Here are more left turns.

1 When it comes to Gibbs, be afraid. Be very afraid.

"He's been dangerous; now it's going to be the subject of all the stories. Gibbs is going to be fully unchained," says Binder, who adds that criminality is in our hero's DNA. He points to a 2008 flashback episode, "Heartland": "He was a little rascal in his small hometown, straightened out by the military and NCIS. When you take those things away, does he revert? You [get violent] too many times, you end up in jail." Gibbs behind bars? Never say never. He's certainly livid about losing his beloved boat, Rule 91, and the serial killer who is the likely culprit should watch out. Investigative journalist Marcie Warren (Harmon's real-life wife, Pam Dawber) returns to close that chapter. ("Whatever jeopardy our people are in, it won't be for that long," Binder notes.)

3 BIG CHANGES

2 The cliffhangers keep coming. "We've got a lot more DJ mixing—the next episode feeds into the last," Binder says, adding, "We drop some pretty big surprises." Expect the first four hours to be "more intense than normal," with a cat-and-mouse chase in No. 2 and an "interesting" road trip in No. 3.

3 Two major characters sign on. The departures of forensic psychologist Jack Sloane (Maria Bello) and agent Ellie Bishop (Emily Wickersham) make room in the bullpen for NCIS special agent Jessica Knight (series regular Katrina Law)—whom we met after her entire team was killed in an explosion—and FBI special agent Alden Parker (series regular Gary Cole). Similar to Gibbs' buddy Fornell (Joe Spano), who also worked at the Bureau, Parker has the potential to be a friend or an enemy. "You should be prepared to like him," Binder says. "We naturally like good guys. And there is nothing better than a likable bad guy."

One of these two gives Gibbs a fresh perspective on himself. "Sometimes new people have insights that people you've known your whole life haven't seen," Binder says. Will it be enough to get our favorite rule-maker back on the straight and narrow? —Kate Hahn

Back to Life

No one gets out of jail free. Just ask Miri Matteson (this dark comedy's creator, Daisy Haggard), who continues her bumpy reentry into society after imprisonment for accidentally killing her friend as a teen. In Season 2, Miri gets a new job, finds her old hair crimper (tragically, she uses it) and continues romancing widower Billy (Adeel Akhtar). "It's not easy when you haven't kissed a boy in 18 years and his mother thinks you're a psychopath," Haggard says. Miri's also at risk. Her victim's dad "wants to destroy her."

Sure, Grammy winner Ariana Grande (right) is a music industry powerhouse, but how will she do sitting alongside Blake Shelton, John Legend and Kelly Clarkson for the competition's 21st season? "Ariana is a force! She goes toe to toe with all the coaches," exclaims exec producer Audrey Morrissey, adding that Grande offers more than playful banter. "She's a very technical vocalist who homes in on performance nuance and subtleties." She's also got a unique incentive to attract singers to her team: "Ari has a curated box of her go-to vocal aids like lozenges and teas."

After a cliffhanger-heavy Season 3 finale, the football drama picks up days later. Even in that short time, the rift between star wide receiver Spencer James (Daniel Ezra) and betrayed coach Billy Baker (Taye Diggs) has widened. "Spencer and Billy are like family, which means they love hard and they fight hard," exec producer Nkechi Okoro Carroll says. More urgent: saving high schooler Layla (Greta Onieogou) from obsessive Carrie (Anna Lore), who has deadly plans for them both (she wrote a suicide note in Layla's name before they left for Tahoe!).

Says Carroll: "That situation escalates very quickly."

Max's people skills are tested...and tested...and tested

Welcome to a more hopeful round of the medical drama after Season 3's COVID-dominated episodes. "But just because our characters are desperately seeking more joy doesn't mean it's going to come easy," says showrunner David Schulner. In fact, fixer Dr. Veronica Fuentes (new recurring cast member Michelle Forbes) brings pretty much the opposite of joy to medical director Max Goodwin (Ryan Eggold). "This is someone he can't win over. He can't even administer his way out because they're so diametrically opposed in their vision for the hospital." As for Max and oncology head Dr. Helen Sharpe (Freema Agyeman) finally getting together, Schulner reassures us the show will not "skimp on any of the details."

Staff notes: Dr. Iggy Frome (Tyler Labine)—stalked by a patient last season—becomes psych residency director. With no teaching skills, "he's starting at the bottom," Schulner says. Sandra Mae Frank plays a deaf surgeon Max is eager to recruit. Unlike Fuentes, she "is aligned with his values." —Linda Maleh

The FBI's takeover of Tuesday night is now complete. The hit CBS Fed franchise has expanded from the New York City bureau to the Fugitive Task Force (Most Wanted) and now offers FBI: International, which follows the Fly Team, a Budapest-based counterterrorism unit that protects Americans abroad. All three series premiere on the same night with an epic crossover. FBI stars Missy Peregrym (Special Agent Maggie Bell) and Zeeko Zaki (Special Agent Omar Adom "OA" Zidan) debrief us.

and powerful folks. Where do Maggie and OA fit in?

Missy Peregrym I'm only doing a scene or two in each episode. Go ahead, Zeek!

Zeeko Zaki I have a throughline in all three shows, [which includes] going to Budapest for the FBI: International pilot.

Peregrym Our office gets Most Wanted [special agent and war vet Kenny] Crosby [Kellan Lutz] involved because we think he might know one of our suspects.

Zaki And the idea of this crossover is to show a crime that is not local, but an international situation.

Right, so why does OA get sent to Budapest on International?

Zaki He blames himself for overlooking something, and he's allowed to see [the case] through to the end. We break protocol because of how affected OA is by the outcome.

Q&A

Zeeko Zaki and Missy Peregrym

"We get a bit Man on Fire," Zaki (with Peregrym) says of the action opener

What else is coming?

Peregrym In [Episode 2] there's a [hostage situation] and someone struggling with their mental health.

The team has to determine if the woman's accusations are valid...on a very tight clock.

Zaki In Episode 3, we get to explore OA's backstory in [Afghanistan] and how he feels about how vets are treated.

Peregrym And we're dealing with a bomb again in Episode 3.

How is Maggie and OA's relationship as partners and friends evolving?

Peregrym What's fun about Season 4 is they work so well together. Ultimately, Maggie and OA have each other's backs, and they really care about each other.

Zaki [Their relationship has] become the backbone of the show!

Peregrym It's very organic [for us to play], because Zeeko and I get along incredibly well.

FBI: MOST WANTED

Doubly exciting: a three-part crossover and a new field agent

Fans will quickly learn if Fugitive Task Force leader Jess LaCroix's (Julian McMahon) young daughter Tali (YaYa Gosselin) and his girlfriend Sarah (Jen Landon) survived shots fired by Sarah's unhinged ex-husband. More nail-biting action ensues six weeks after the finale's events (on the three-hour crossover; the series moves to its regular timeslot at 10/9c after the premiere) as Jess and his unit help target a worldwide crime ring, along with teams from FBI and Tuesday's new spinoff, FBI: International. "The case starts out small and keeps escalating," previews McMahon. "We're talking about lots of power and money."

Also along for the takedown: soon-to-be new task force member Kristin Gaines (Alexa Davalos, The Man in the High Castle), a dogged Miami field agent who coincidentally is tracking the same suspect as the New York Feds. Plot twist! After four seasons, Emily VanCamp exits the series

Is nurse practitioner Nic Nevin (Emily VanCamp) flatlining? How, exactly, VanCamp's character will be written off is a guarded secret. But her fate—teased in an ominous Season 5 promo—will surely rock the world of her husband, Dr. Conrad Hawkins (Matt Czuchry), who, exec producer Peter Elkoff says, is already "struggling" with his high-powered career and their 9-month-old baby.

Things are even more off kilter at Chastain Park Memorial: A ransomware attack tests CEO Kit Voss (Jane Leeves) in the opener. "It's a real ticking time bomb," says Elkoff. Could she find solace with the mostly redeemed Dr.

Randolph Bell (Bruce Greenwood)? "We'll do a little will-they-won't-they with them," teases EP Andrew Chapman. Also, the reinflated ego of Dr. AJ Austin (Malcolm-Jamal Warner) gets checked via a new mentorship. Their relationship is "not just business," Chapman hints. Louisiana's Bordelon family face life's struggles together, which will be as necessary as ever in the drama's sixth season. Stressed about his growing family with wife Darla (Bianca Lawson), Ralph Angel (Kofi Siriboe) crosses moral (and legal) lines. His outspoken sister, investigative journalist Nova (Rutina Wesley), "experiences some strong reactions to those she's trying to expose," France adds. At least impassioned sibling

Burning Questions

Will the staff warm to interim Emergency Department chief Dean Archer (Steven Weber)?

He's been in the position for two months when Season 7 starts, subbing while Ethan Choi (Brian Tee) recovers after being shot by an ex-patient. The former Navy officer is demanding and believes he's always right, so expect conflict. Though exec producer Diane Frolov notes, "For all Archer's emotional issues, he is still a dedicated and resourceful doctor."

How do the exits of Dr. Natalie Manning (Torrey DeVitto) and Nurse April Sexton (Yaya DaCosta) affect the dynamic?

An unexpected bond has formed between Will Halstead (Nick Gehlfuss) and Crockett Marcel (Dominic Rains), two docs who disliked each other because they both loved Natalie. "Their shared loss [after her departure] will bring them closer together as friends," says fellow EP Andrew Schneider. Among the nurses getting additional screen time: no-nonsense Maggie Campbell (Marlyne

Weber has been upped to a series regular Barrett), who "will be involved in more medicine this season," Schneider says. Expect "a particularly wild case involving identical twins" in the premiere, he adds.

Who are the new doctors, Stevie Hammer (Kristen Hager, Condor) and Dylan Scott (Guy Lockard)?

Frolov describes Stevie as "funny, opinionated and scrappy," which could explain why her nickname in medical school was "The Hammer." A difficult childhood fuels her compassion. Dylan is a pediatric specialist—and a former cop, from a family of cops that includes a still high-ranking dad and a sister who's an undercover narcotics detective. He also went through the academy with a couple of P.D.'s finest. # CHICAGO FIRE

Who will make it out of Lake Michigan alive?

Last we saw the Truck and Rescue Squad's Lt. Kelly Severide (Taylor Kinney), Joe Cruz (Joe Minoso), Harold Capp (Randy Flagler) and Tony Ferraris (real-life firefighter Anthony Ferraris), they were trapped underwater in a sinking boat with no air left in their tanks—and the exits blocked! Whether they all survive is a tightly held secret. But here's what showrunner Derek Haas can say about Season 10's opening scene, which picks up there: "My wife has already watched, and right before the titles came up, she screamed at me, 'Nooo!'"

Will newly minted lieutenant Stella Kidd (Miranda Rae Mayo) leave Firehouse 51?

We know there's currently no room for Kidd—who's also newly engaged to Severide—to step up there. She'll be searching for a unit that's a good fit when the drama returns. Says Haas, "If a position opens for her at another house, she's going to have to leave."

NBC (3)

Should we prepare for Chief Wallace Boden (Eamonn Walker) to move up and out?

He'd like to take over the deputy district chief job. "We'll see big changes at 51," Haas hints. "The chief's decisions will factor in, but that won't be the only big change this season."

Now that "Brettsey" is official, what else can we celebrate?

Yes, Capt. Matt Casey (Jesse Spencer) and paramedic in charge Sylvie Brett (Kara Killmer) finally got together in the finale. Haas can't reveal if Casey will get the chance to plan that epic bachelor party that Severide requested (please!). Burgess (Squerciati) took two bullets to the stomach

How critical is Officer Kim Burgess' (Marina Squerciati) condition?

While working a sex-trafficking case, Burgess was kidnapped—and shot. As Season 9 begins, she's at Med "fighting for her life," says exec producer Rick Eid. "She is by no means through the woods."

Will this bring Burgess and her former fiancé Adam Ruzek (Patrick John Flueger) closer?

At Burgess' request, the fellow cop is caring for her adopted daughter, Makayla (Ramona Edith Williams). "Whatever stage their romance is in, they are each other's family," Eid says. As a guardian, Ruzek is true to form: "He'll do it from the heart, making mistakes as he goes."

What's the fallout for the death of Burgess' shooter?

Intelligence Unit leader Hank Voight (Jason Beghe) wanted to kill the guy after he refused to give up Burgess' location. Det. Hailey Upton (Tracy Spiridakos) intended to stop Voight, but ultimately pulled the trigger herself. Then Voight buried the body. "They are both complicit in the cover-up, and consequences could fall down hard on them both," says Eid.

Nicole Ari Parker returns as CPD Deputy Superintendent Sam Miller in the opener.

How does Det. Jay Halstead (Jesse Lee Soffer) respond to Upton's surprise proposal?

Distraught after killing Burgess' unarmed shooter, Upton—who rejected her live-in boyfriend's proposal not long ago—popped the question. "He's very much in love, but also aware that he's in love with a complicated person," says Eid. "He'll take his time to determine where this proposal is coming from."

Any interesting cases ahead?

As the show explores new pockets of Chicago, Voight and Det. Kevin Atwater (LaRoyce Hawkins) will "find themselves in dilemmas with some interesting and unpredictable women," Eid hints. —IR

SURVIVOR

Who thought up this endurance challenge: Nearly 500 days without Survivor? (At least we had all the peanut butter we wanted.) Season 41—shot this spring in Fiji—finally arrives, and the diabolical minds behind the trailblazing competition spent their COVID-imposed hiatus injecting more fun into the game. “When you’re talking about fun on Survivor, what you’re really talking about is danger,” says host Jeff Probst. “So we went for it. Big time.” Here’s what’s new.

1 Just getting through the day is much harder. The 18 castaways, split into three tribes, start off with minimal supplies at their camps and no rice. (Sounds more like Naked and Afraid.) “Their physical and mental abilities start to fade very fast,” Probst says. Rewards, too, are scarce.

3 BIG CHANGES

Ex-NFL player Danny McCray (with Erika Casupanan) steps up

2 Nothing is free. Making a stealth search for an immunity idol or some other advantage is no longer simply a walk in the park, er, jungle. “You have to risk something for the advantage to have power,” Probst warns. “If you fail, there is a consequence!” And with 26 days of filming versus the usual 39, the accelerated pace leaves little time to weigh decisions—or make up lost ground.

3 There's good news and bad news for superfans. At-home obsessives can play the Game Within the Game by solving puzzles hidden in each episode, with a payoff at the finale. When we last saw the Boston gang at the center of this ensemble tearjerker, usually genial actuary Gary (James Roday Rodriguez) was paying a rage-fueled visit to the music teacher (Andrew Leeds) who was sexually inappropriate with his late bud’s daughter Sophie (Lizzy Greene). As Gary threw a sack over the predator’s head, our jaws hit the floor. Showrunner DJ Nash promises that we’ll find out early in Season 4 what happened after the camera cut away. “It’s not OK,” he adds ominously.

As for Gary’s friends, Nash offers that Regina (Christina Moses) will “humorously back into” a new gig following the demise of her restaurant, while she and hubby Rome (Romany Malco) adjust to life as parents of foster teen Tyrell (Adam Swain). ## BATWOMAN

We feel guilty for being this excited, but bring on the baddies!

Now that Gotham City embraces its new Batwoman (Javicia Leslie, who replaced Ruby Rose last year), the caped crusader is about to be awash in familiar foes—or at least versions of them. Season 2’s finale saw Batman’s collection of villain artifacts floating down the river: the Mad Hatter’s chapeau, the Penguin’s umbrella and a sprig of Poison Ivy’s plants. They won’t remain unclaimed for long. “We call them Bat trophies,” says showrunner Caroline Dries. “In the first few episodes, they start washing up on shore and we see a derivative of our old-school Bat villains take possession of them.”

Leslie’s Ryan Wilder and ops pro Luke Fox (Camrus Johnson) have equally tricky family matters to handle. Riverdale vet Robin Givens is set to join as Ryan’s birth mom, tech mogul Jada Jet, and Luke discovers a mysterious link between his late father and the superhero he’s been sporting as crime fighter Batwing. What a difference (nearly) a year makes! Not all of the Seattle firefighters' relationships stood the test of time

Ten months have elapsed since Station 19 captain Maya Bishop (Danielle Savre) was publicly fired during her wedding to ob-gyn Carina DeLuca (Stefania Spampinato). In addition to that professional drama, the event stirred up much romantic drama. Executive producer Kiley Donovan—who notes that there have been "big shake-ups at 19, and the fire family is not quite intact"—reveals which love matches still sizzle and which flamed out.

MAYA AND CARINA Despite Maya's shift in career status—she's still part of the Seattle FD, but where?—in Season 5, "their marriage is solid, an A+," says Donovan.

GREY'S ANATOMY

No more walks on the beach, we hope!

Even for a medical soap that thrives on tears, angst and broken hearts, last season was a gut punch: The show's beloved mainstay, Meredith Grey (Ellen Pompeo), spent months in a COVID-related coma. Her ex Andrew DeLuca (Giacomo Gianniotti) died heroically. And veteran surgeons Jackson Avery (Jesse Williams) and Tom Koracick (Greg Germann) left Grey Sloan Memorial to work at the Catherine Fox Foundation. Thank heavens for the nuptials of Mer's half sister Maggie Pierce (Kelly McCreary) and Winston Ndugu (Anthony Hill) in the finale! Here, executive producer Meg Marinis preps us to scrub in for Season 18.

● In the opener, an influx of patients flood the hospital after Seattle hosts a citywide summer celebration. "Everyone goes all out in an attempt to return to their pre-pandemic lives," Marinis says. Surgery chief Miranda Bailey (Chandra Wilson) focuses on filling job vacancies. ● Finally free of her long-haul health problems, Meredith, the newly appointed residency program director, is "energized and devoted to her career," says Marinis. Her date with Irish widower Cormac Hayes (Richard Flood) remains delayed. "Meredith is not looking for a new relationship now," says Marinis, teasing the possibility of better timing down the road. ● Ellis Grey (Kate Burton), Meredith's late mother, wasn't among the dearly departed seen in Mer's coma dreams, but she will return to haunt her. The hypercritical Ellis "represents a voice in Meredith's head that makes her feel like she's never enough," Marinis says. "Post-COVID, she will again have to overcome this fear." ● Owen Hunt (Kevin McKidd) and Teddy Altman (Kim Raver) "went through the emotional washing machine" after he discovered her infidelity on their wedding day, Marinis admits, but they're "solid" now that he's reproposed. Amelia Shepherd (Caterina Scorsone) rejecting Atticus "Link" Lincoln's (Chris Carmack) heartfelt proposal, however, has left the coparents' relationship "definitely shaky." ● Jo Wilson (Camilla Luddington) will struggle to balance her ob-gyn residency with raising adopted daughter Luna. "We want to show what it's like for a new mom with a stressful job," says Marinis. "It will be heartbreakingly funny and very real!" —Leanne Rudolph ## Cassie and Jenny barely survived their last case. Here they go again!

"Ronald's still out there," says showrunner Elwood Reid, cutting right to the chase. We last saw the sociopath (Brian Geraghty) making a getaway alongside twisted girlfriend Scarlet (Anja Savcic), with PI Cassie Dewell (Kylie Bunbury) in pursuit. That saga "will boil back up," Reid says. (Who puts Ronald in chains?) And while his vile accomplice, Rick Legarski (John Carroll Lynch), didn't make it out of the drama's first season alive, we can't wait to meet the late state trooper's twin brother (Lynch again)!

For now, it's back to business at Dewell & Hoyt—sort of. Having survived a bullet to the chest, Jenny Hoyt (Katheryn Winnick) makes a move to the sheriff's office. A new case investigating a car wreck "gets our two women side-by-side and in danger," teases Reid. Janina Gavankar (Sleepy Hollow) joins as an out-of-towner embroiled in the mystery, which puts a group of teens in jeopardy, and The Sopranos' Jamie-Lynn Sigler plays a waitress with a missing boyfriend.

One snag: U.S. marshal Mark Lindor (Omar Metwally), Cassie and coworker Jerrie (Jesse James Keitel) develop a love triangle. And then Jenny's hookup (Logan Marshall-Green) is "not who he seems," says Reid. He's an undercover drug agent! —Linda Maleh

YOUNG SHELDON

We hear that Meemaw (Annie Potts) looks for a hobby, something that keeps her busy and excited. How would you describe her this season? Meemaw is as feisty as ever. I would say if I couldn't be Sheldon, I would be Meemaw. She's the best. Sheldon's mentor Dr. Sturgis (Wallace Shawn) is back and working at a grocery store. Is he enjoying that?

Very much! Mr. Wally, just like Ms. Annie, is a pleasure to work with. There are scenes I have with Mr. Wally where I cannot keep a straight face if you paid me. I'll say before the take, "I'm not going to laugh, I'm not going to laugh" ... and then I laugh.

What do you do on set when you're not shooting? Child actors have school in between scenes, so I'm dividing trimomials while [adults are], I don't know, on their phones. ## 3 BIG CHANGES

BULL

The honeymoon is over for newly remarried Dr. Jason Bull (Michael Weatherly) and Izzy Colón (Yara Martinez): In the drama's Season 6 premiere, their toddler, Astrid, is kidnapped! "Obviously that's an intense crisis. Sometimes people handle things differently," notes executive producer Kathryn Price, one of two new showrunners with Nichole Millard. It won't be the last time Bull feels a loss of control.

1 Benny Colón (Freddy Rodriguez) has left Bull's Trial Analysis Corporation. "Benny found love in a different country, and the team is very happy for him," Millard says, addressing Rodriguez's exit. A "100 percent ready" Chunk Palmer (Christopher Jackson) steps up as lead attorney.

2 The women get more screen time. On an "empowering journey," neurolinguistics expert Marissa Morgan (Geneva Carr) reevaluates her role at TAC, says Price. Hacker Taylor Rentzel's (MacKenzie Meehan) skill set "might get her into a little trouble," teases Millard, adding that she also deals with the fallout of her ex kissing her. And investigator Danny James (Jaime Lee Kirchner) contemplates a romance with a wealthy client.

3 Stronger ties = higher stakes. The longtime colleagues socialize more (karaoke!), but that bond is threatened. Says Price: "They go up against bigger obstacles than ever before. Are they going to stick together?" —Mandi Bierly

Oct. 7, 10/9c, CBS

Doom Patrol

The trippy dramedy's vulgar, emotionally troubled superheroes start Season 3 "up s--t's creek," cracks executive producer Jeremy Carver. Their botched plot to save the Chief (Timothy Dalton) and his daughter Dorothy (Abi Monterey) from the Candlemaker—the personification of her worst fear—has gotten them trapped in wax. "Their survival is dependent on Dorothy going toe-to-toe with the abomination," Carver adds. Also, metahuman Jane (Diane Guerrero) must figure out how one of her supposedly dead alter egos has returned, and Season 1's cheekiest monsters rear again. That's right, the EP says: "The butts are back."

Sept. 28, HBO Max

United States of Al

The fall of Kabul impacts the sitcom's sophomore season and, naturally, Afghani interpreter and Columbus, Ohio, transplant Awalmir "Al" Karimi (Adhir Kalyan). "Al branches out academically and romantically, but he's still getting used to life in a new country," says executive producer Maria Ferrari. Also, after struggling last season, Marine Corps veteran Riley (Parker Young, below right, with Kalyan) takes "active steps with regard to his mental health," says fellow EP Dave Goetsch. We'll meet his therapist and some of his old squadmates. We'll also see that Riley

B Positive

Following Drew Dunbar's (Thomas Middleditch) successful kidney transplant, the sitcom homes in on donor Gina Dabrowski (Annaleigh Ashford) for Season 2. A life-altering event thrusts her into a position of authority at the retirement home, where she tries to do right by residents like Linda Lavin's Norma. (Executive producer Jim Patterson reminds us Gina "has the best of intentions but often not the greatest instincts.") Finally, Drew suspects he's falling for Gina. "Is it related to her giving him her kidney, or true romantic feelings?" Patterson queries.

Oct. 7, 9:30/8:30c, CBS

Legacies

Hope (Danielle Rose Russell) and the malevolent golem Malivore (Douglas Tait) square off in the supernatural drama's first four hours of Season 4. As a tritrib of witch, werewolf and latent vampire, she supposedly has to die and activate her bloodsucker side to win. Plus, Malivore is still occupying the body of her beloved Landon (Aria Shahghasemi). Do the tortured lovers have a future? "Fate doesn't seem to think so," executive producer Brett Matthews says. "[But] the core of their relationship has always been fighting that fate."

FRIDAY

Frank (Selleck, left), pleased as ever to be speaking with the mayor (Walsh)

BLUE BLOODS

Is the police commissioner about to be out of commission?

Say it ain't so! Seems like New York City police commissioner Frank Reagan (Tom Selleck) is considering retirement—again. According to Blue Bloods showrunner Kevin Wade, Season 12's opening episodes "frame Frank as a guy who's seen it all, done it all and [questions] does he really want to anymore."

In the real world, Wade says, "it was very clear this year that if you were a cop in New York, it must be incredibly frustrating, because there is rampant street crime. For all the Reagans, [what] they signed up for—to protect and serve the public and carry out the law—feels out of reach." It doesn't help Frank's mood that Mayor Peter Chase (Dylan Walsh) needs the city to appear safe to boost tourism back to pre-pandemic levels. "He's kind of like the mayor in Jaws," Wade jokes about the movie character who ignored the great white shark gobbling up beachgoers.

Det. Danny Reagan (Donnie Wahlberg) is so unnerved by the city's many unsolved street shootings that he pockets the sock of a toddler killed by crossfire to show to medium Maggie (Callie Thorne). Whether or not she can discern who the murderer is, she can definitely discern how lonely the widower is. "She [asks], 'When's the last time you went out with a woman, not to seduce her but for companionship?' And it strikes him—the clarity with which she sees him," Wade says. "Without spoiling the [scene's] end, her words affect him. He wakes up a bit."

On a lighter note, October brings another Halloween-set installment, and this spring marks the 250th episode and, by extension, the 250th Reagan clan Sunday dinner. We don't know who's on that guest list, but a couple of past invitees—Frank's recently discovered grandson Joe Hill (Will Hochman) and the PC's former partner Lenny (Treat Williams)—return this season, as do Archbishop Kevin Kearns (Stacy Keach) and Texas Ranger Waylon Gates (singer Lyle Lovett). May we please see Danny in a cowboy hat again? —Leanne Rudolph

THE GREAT

In the second season of the period comedy loosely based on Russia's Catherine II, the 18th-century empress (Elle Fanning, pictured) rules after wresting control from her idiot husband, Peter III (Nicholas Hoult). —Linda Malek Nov. 19, Hulu

THEN

In Season 1, hotheaded Peter wasn't above repeating a joke to intimidate courtiers into laughing: "Gentlemen, I said, 'He looks like he fell in a fire.'"

To end the war with Sweden, Catherine took charge at the talks, appealing to the egos of Peter and the equally immature Scandinavian king.

Peter's aunt Elizabeth (Belinda Bromilow) was one of his staunchest allies, until patriotism and a new heir convinced her to switch sides.

NOW

BIGGEST BABY IN THE PALACE

Catherine's soon-to-be-born bundle of joy! The pregnancy secures her reign, but it also gives her weird cravings...for eating dirt.

Catherine and Peter vie for control of the palace. In the Season 2 opener, she smokes him out of his wing by inventing the Molotov cocktail!

SHREWD BATTLE TACTIC

Catherine's glamorous mother, Joanna (guest star Gillian Anderson), arrives in Russia from Germany with a possible scheme up her sleeve.

On Location in Mexico S.W.A.T.

A nameless stranger rolls into town and unexpectedly saves the day. It's easy to see how the 1985 Clint Eastwood Western Pale Rider inspired the drama's cinematic two-part premiere—even if gunslinger heroics are the last thing on Hondo's (Shemar Moore) mind when we catch up with him. He's been in Mexico, using a friend's vacation home to regroup after being demoted as SWAT team leader for speaking to the media about racism in the LAPD. "He feels bruised and battered despite having done the right thing," says exec producer Shawn Ryan. "A lot of his swagger is gone. He's soul searching about what to do with his life."

While out for a ride (in scenes filmed south of Mexico City in the picturesque Morelos region), he stumbles onto trouble at a neighbor's property and gets pulled into the lives of a young woman (Val Dorantes) and her widowed mother (Pilar Padilla). The two are trying to keep their farm afloat while fighting off land-grabbers. "There is a very epic Pale Rider-ish showdown," Ryan promises, adding that, in the second hour, while Hondo is still in Mexico, we also rejoin the team in L.A. Here's a preview of what's to come.

- Jim Street (Alex Russell), who's recovering from liver-donor surgery, and Chris Alonso (Lina Esco), back from leadership training in Germany, reunite months after that passionate Season 4-finale smooch. "That relationship story will get closure this season," hints Ryan.

- In Hondo's absence, Deacon Kay (Jay Harrington) is tapped to lead, but he doesn't want to betray his friend. Coming up: He and Chris are ambushed on a private security detail drive from L.A. to Vegas. "It turns into a spectacular survival story," says Ryan.

Moore's Hondo "gets back to basics," says Ryan (right: Dorantes)

- Newlywed Victor Tan (David Lim) has been part of another team. He'll face a dilemma when an old flame comes to L.A.
- A cold murder case that widowed commander Robert Hicks (Patrick St. Esprit) was obsessed with becomes hot again, providing insight into his early career.
- Dominique Luca (Kenny Johnson) is central to an arc that begins with the intro of LAPD/SWAT vet Rodrigo Sanchez (David DeSantos), a political climber. Says Ryan, "It shakes things up in a way that will be different for us." —Kate Hahn

Magnum P.I.

Aloha means both goodbye and hello: Five months after leaving Hawaii, Juliet Higgins (Perdita Weeks) is back, rejoining her PI business partner (and unacknowledged Mr. Right) Thomas Magnum (Jay Hernandez, below) in Episode 2. Higgle is still dating Dr. Ethan Shah (Jay Ali), "but things will get bumpy," says exec producer Eric Guggenheim. Magnum is in a relationship too—with an HPD detective (Chantal Thuy)—but they're keeping it quiet

"for reasons that will be explained." For the drama's Season 4 jobs, the investigators go undercover at a country club and also work cases involving a runaway bride and teen suicide.

Oct. 1, 9/8c, CBS

Narcos: Mexico

Following the breakup of the Guadalajara Cartel (star Diego Luna departs now that its kingpin is imprisoned), the Mexican drug war truly begins in the third and final season. The show's new narrator, journalist Andrea Nuñez (Luisa Rubino), covers the power struggle and upheaval in Tijuana—where Enedina Arellano Félix (Mayra Hermosillo) rises to head her family's cartel. In the '90s, "there were political assassinations and armed rebellions, and the job of journalists—trying to tell the truth—became very dangerous," says executive producer Carlo Bernard. Meanwhile, cop Victor Tapia (Luis Gerardo Méndez) investigates the deaths of women in Juarez.

Friday Quick Takes

You

In the stalker drama's return, serial killer Joe Goldberg (Penn Badgley) is trapped in the white-picket hell of a privileged California community. His marriage to the equally unhinged Love (Victoria Pedretti) is unraveling, and their new baby seems to hate him. A beautiful neighbor (Michaela McManus) triggers his obsessive side...until things take a sudden, shocking turn. "We want to make sure we surprise people early," says showrunner Sera Gamble, adding that while there are casualties in these episodes, Season 3 is less about the count and "more about how many huge new problems come into Joe and Love's lives when a body drops."

"We really stack the deck against them," Hudnut says of Jason's (Boreanaz) team in the premiere

SEAL TEAM

The mission: Leave 'em wanting more so fans follow when the drama exits CBS

Stamp this file TOP SECRET: The military drama opens with a black-ops assignment "in the most fortified country in the world," says exec producer Spencer Hudnut. "If we're even discovered, it will set off an international incident." This is the first of many bold missions, but folded into Season 5 is something more personal. "We examine what years of combat in the War on Terror has done to [soldiers]," he says. For Bravo 1, Jason Hayes (David Boreanaz), the result has been debilitating headaches. "Jason keeps an eye on this situation to make sure he's able to operate," adds Hudnut.

He needs all his wits in Episode 4, SEAL Team's last on CBS before moving to Paramount+. The unit is in Burkina Faso after a large-scale terrorist attack, and a cliffhanger aims to lure viewers to the streamer. Says Hudnut of the switch, "It's the same show. ## DOCTOR WHO

She's not saying goodbye yet!

It's the 13th installment, with the Thirteenth Doctor, but we feel lucky we get to see the heroic Time Lord again before actress Jodie Whittaker departs. This six-episode season, which tells one epic story, picks up mid-adventure with the Doc and her protective ally Yaz (Mandip Gill) now traveling space and time without Ryan (Tosin Cole) and Graham (Bradley Walsh), who departed the T.A.R.D.I.S. in the New Year's Day special.

Their latest journey leads them to new companion Dan, played by British comic John Bishop, who's only let slip that the character must be from Liverpool because he can't do other accents. Jacob Anderson, aka Game of Thrones' Grey Worm, also recurs as good guy Vinder.

As for the plot, we know classic foes reemerge: "I'm excited for our amazing Whovians to see some incredible interactions with old monsters," Whittaker has hinted. She's due to hang up her suspenders after a trio of specials in 2022. Exterminate our tears! —Emily Aslanian Fall, BBC America

NCIS: LOS ANGELES

With a big move toward adoption, Kensi and Deeks may see their dream of parenthood become a reality

"They just want a little kid to love," Daniela Ruah says of her character, Kensi Blye, and husband Marty Deeks (Eric Christian Olsen), who've coped with heartbreak infertility. Now the brave couple start the adoption process.

A case early on in Season 13 involving Asian American hate crimes will make the NCIS special agents—both of whom had tough childhoods—aware of problems their new family member could face. "Kensi and Deeks ticked the box [on the adoption application] that race wasn't an issue but didn't think what that might entail," Ruah says. "You want this child to relate to their natural-born culture and fit in."

The actress is proud producers have talked to specialists and researched the realities of adoption. And she has personal reasons to root for Densi: "I know how much joy and fulfillment having children has brought my life. Kensi's seen the most ugly, terrible criminals"—stalker Kessler (Frank Military) is still out there—"so she and Deeks just want love and positivity in their home life." —KH

Dead plants and crumbling structures dot the wasteland. "Normally, [the art department] has to go in and 'apocalypize,'" Chambliss says, removing anything out of place. New duties: Bring in ash, block any greenery.

Nurse June Dorie (Jenna Elfman) layers up to avoid radiation poisoning. To see actors' emotions, some gas masks are designed to show eyes. A camera can also fit inside the mask, Chambliss says, for "an Iron Man-style shot of their reality."

Fires are still burning from the aftereffects, and smoke and haze fill the air. "Our special effects department may have exhausted the U.S. supply of smoke bombs," EP Andrew Chambliss says.

SUCCESSION

The moneyed Roy family attains new heights of dysfunction in their tug-of-war over the Waystar RoyCo media conglomerate. In Season 3, "It's hard for anyone to stay on the sidelines," says exec producer Jesse Armstrong. Let's check in. —Jim Halterman October, HBO

1. Kendall Roy (Jeremy Strong) Publicly revealing dad Logan's unconscionable business dealings—basically, declaring war—in 2019's combustible finale proved the usually obedient second son does have that killer instinct. "He's liberated by his decision," says Armstrong. "He's made a decisive break [from Logan], and that brings some clarity."

2. Logan Roy (Brian Cox) The tyrannical patriarch is accustomed to bulldozing everyone, especially his power-hungry offspring, so Kendall's open defiance has changed everything. "They're in a new place now," says Armstrong, adding, "All wars are horrible, but civil wars are maybe the most bitter."

3. Roman Roy (Kieran Culkin) The snarky youngest son landed the COO position. Now he has to pick a side. "It's appealing to go with big brother," the EP says. On the other hand, "Kendall being effectively gone means there's a vacancy for No. 1 son."

4. Connor Roy (Alan Ruck) As the hierarchy shifts, being on the outside of the family business is advantageous for the "underestimated and undervalued" eldest Roy. "Connor is an asset the different camps want to claim as their own," Armstrong explains. "And he has his own agenda to push."

5. Shiv Roy (Sarah Snook) Complicated doesn't begin to describe daughter Shiv's marriage to jelly-spined Tom Wambsgans (Matthew Macfadyen), characterized by "so many layers of true feelings but also duplicity and deception," says Armstrong. Now the family tensions "[pull] them in different directions."

THE EQUALIZER

As last season's top new drama returns, undercover vigilante Robyn McCall (Queen Latifah) teams with the cop who once wanted to expose her. Det. Marcus Dante (Tory Kittles) asks the motorcycle-riding badass to help him catch bank robbers who killed police officers—an investigation that will lead to top levels of U.S. intelligence and politics. Showrunners Terri Edda Miller and Andrew W. Marlowe tell us more.

Season 1 ended with Robyn's daughter finding her mom's secret cache of weapons and passports. What's next?!

Teen Delilah (Laya DeLeon Hayes) demanded to know, "For starters, who are you?" No matter how former CIA operative Robyn answers, Delilah will realize that her mother has been lying to her all her life: "Things get a bit prickly and turned upside down in the McCall household," reveals Miller. "They try to find their new normal." In the original 1985–89 Equalizer series, the son helped his dad with cases. Could we see Delilah fight crime?

After all, her best friend's murder by Eastern European gangsters remains unsolved. "We don't have plans for her to be Equalizer Jr. just yet," says Marlowe. But, he hints, "she shares her mother's determination and passion to address injustice. We'll see her act on that as she navigates her own world."

How much pressure will Robyn feel from her former handler, William Bishop (Chris Noth)?

That relationship gets increasingly complicated too. "We'll learn more about him, and more of McCall's secrets, past adventures, loves and maybe even how she came to join the CIA," Miller teases.

Can we expect romance between McCall and Dante?

"There will be sparks!" says Miller. The question is: Will other people come between them before they ignite? DA Avery Grafton (Jennifer Ferrin), for one, doubles down on the effort to identify the Equalizer. "Dante has to decide where he truly stands," Marlowe says, "and how far across the line he's willing to go."

Any more hints about Season 2?

"It starts with a bang!" Marlowe offers. Expect more info on Robyn's Aunt Vi (Lorraine Toussaint) and the members of her team, hacker Harry (Adam Goldberg) and sniper Mel (Liza Lapira). Also keep an eye out for "a couple of very juicy guest stars" whose names producers are not ready to divulge. —Kate Hahn Oct. 10, 8/7c, CBS

Original Song!THE
SIMPSONS

Start the overture: For its 33rd season, the animated sitcom is staging its first Broadway-style musical episode. Marge (voiced by Julie Kavner and, when singing, Kristen Bell) relives her high school stage manager gig by reviving Y2K: The Millennium Bug. "She's nostalgic for a time when she was more than just a mom," exec producer Matt Selman says.

Writer Elisabeth Kiernan Averick—aided by fellow Crazy Ex-Girlfriend alums—created an extravaganza featuring seven songs that tip a hat to shows like Rent, Chicago and Wicked. (For "Fraud-way," she hints, "That's when Marge gets green with envy.") Homer (Dan Castellaneta), spurred by Marge's misplaced anger at Y2K's egotistical star (Sara Chase), sings a soft-shoe number (see an early sketch and lyrics, right). As with traditional musicals, the songs advance the story, so they're funny, of course, but not, as Selman says, "jokety, joke, joke, joke." —Emily Aslanian

"A DELICATE APPROACH"

When your partner's in a tizzy
Flossing till she's dizzy
Clearly in the wrong, but certain she's right
It's your responsibility
To imply her culpability
In a way that doesn't instigate
a fight

[Homer tap-dances on the closed toilet lid, his toenails clicking and clacking as he sings to the kids.]

Don't escalate the situation
Or add further complication Mince your words so as never to encroach
Deliver your advice
But make sure to do it nice
For it's best to use a delicate approach

[Homer pumps Calming Lavender Emotion Lotion onto his hands, then delicately gives Marge a hand massage.
As her body visibly relaxes, she looks into his eyes.]

Now, I know you may think you were just in your actions
But it makes my heart sink to see your infractions
Your feelings were hurt
but it's malice you blur
Your transaction compels a retraction

[Marge, realizing he's right, runs out of the bathroom. Homer triumphantly dances à la Fred Astaire, using the plunger as a cane, then says "You see, kids?" before singing his closing line.]

It's best to use a delicate approach!

Which Duttons live to fight another day?

There's a new vulture hungry to acquire the Duttons' Montana cattle ranch: ruthless Caroline Warner (Jacki Weaver), CEO of Market Equities, the company that employs familiar schemer Roarke Morris (Josh Holloway).

"She's a city slicker walking through fields of cowpats in designer heels and classy tailored suits. She looks out of place, but she's terrifying," says Weaver (Silver Linings Playbook), a two-time Oscar nominee who didn't recognize her reflection the first time she stepped into character. "She takes no prisoners, treats everyone badly—and is going to add another dimension to the huge cataclysmic drama that is the Duttons."

If any of them are left! The bloody Season 3 finale ended with gunmen opening fire on patriarch John (Kevin Costner) and favorite son Kayce (Luke Grimes) and a bomb addressed to tough daughter Beth (Kelly Reilly) going boom. "It was shocking, absolutely horrifying," says Weaver, who binged all three seasons after she was cast.

She knows enemies of the Duttons haven't fared so well either. "Caroline wouldn't be surprised to have her life threatened," Weaver says. "But she's fearless and takes that in stride." The Aussie actress herself is more cautious. "I used to love doing stunts, but you don't see me on a horse!" —Kate Hahn

In a dark season, shy curate Leonard is publicly outed, and Geordie's WWII history as a POW comes flooding back

Enjoy the Dirty Dancing—inspired holiday that vicar Will Davenport (Tom Brittney), Detective Inspector Geordie Keating (Robson Green) and the gang go on in the premiere, because the fun of couples "having a snooze" in their cabins (wink-wink) and Will canoodling by the water won't last long. Two storylines take Season 6 of the Masterpiece Mystery! to "dark places," says creator Daisy Coulam, beginning when gay curate Leonard Finch's (Al Weaver) loving private life—a crime in 1958 England—is exposed. "Will and Geordie see somebody suffer because the law is not always just," Coulam says, adding that the scandal impacts every character. "But there is some hope at the end."

The second half of the eight-episode season doubles down on that theme—the cost of facing the truth—with World War II prisoner of war Geordie confronting the painful past he's suppressed. The arc tests his relationships with Will and with wife Cathy (Kacey Ainsworth), culminating in a case

New year, new strategy for keeping the lights on at Nonnatus House

The times are a-changin' for the nuns and nurses of Nonnatus House. Season 10 of this evocative British drama takes place in 1966, with the future of the convent that serves the working-class families of London's Poplar neighborhood on shaky ground.

Resourceful Sister Julienne (Jenny Agutter) clashes with

Dr. Turner (Stephen McGann) over her plan to raise money—by sending midwife Trixie (Helen George) to temporarily work in a private maternity hospital. (Wait till you see her pink eyesore of a uniform!)

Speaking of clothes, the nuns consider updating their habits. And one Nonnatus favorite is en route to a wedding gown—there's a proposal! —Diane Snyder

BAPTISTE

The tortured detective tracks a missing family in Budapest

A new case may be what retired French detective Julien Baptiste (Tchéky Karyo) needs to help him work through his personal grief. Or it could be what pushes him over the edge. In Season 2, Julien heads to Hungary to help British ambassador Emma Chambers (Killing Eve's Fiona Shaw) search for her family, who were gone when she woke up one morning.

The six Masterpiece Mystery! episodes play out in two timelines: when Emma's husband and two teen sons disappear and 14 months later, with Julien and Emma battered by the case. The two wrestle with similar demons but have a love-hate relationship. "They're struggling with each other," says producer John Griffin, "but they're helping each other too." —DS

5 Can't-Miss New Releases

Most Anticipated Return

The Morning Show

FRIDAY, SEPT. 17 APPLE TV+

ORIGINAL DRAMA And we're back. After a nearly two-year hiatus, the Emmy-winning series set behind the scenes at a scandal-plagued national morning show returns with enough drama to fill hundreds of those news tickers that scroll across your TV.

The action picks up right after cohosts Alex Levy (Jennifer Aniston, whom TV GUIDE MAGAZINE senior critic Matt Roush called "a marvel of steely yet vulnerable glamor" in his Season 1 review) and Bradley Jackson (Reese Witherspoon, above right, with Aniston) exposed—on-air—their network's hostile culture, including the bombshell that higher-ups at the network knew that sleazy ex-anchor Mitch Kessler (Steve Carell) had a history of sexually inappropriate behavior.

The shocking revelation causes several of the players "to go through some sort of epiphany," says exec producer and director Mimi Leder. The team will also grapple with the coronavirus, racism and cancel culture in a story that begins in late 2019 and then time-jumps twice: forward eight months, then back 90 days.

In that span, Alex leaves the show but returns. "She's traumatized," Leder explains, adding that questions about how much she knew about Mitch could tarnish her reputation. Meanwhile, Bradley, still relatively new in the job, must navigate the workplace with anchor Laura Peterson (welcome addition Julianna Margulies), whom the network brings in when Alex is off. "She's a Diane Sawyer type who shakes things up," Leder says.

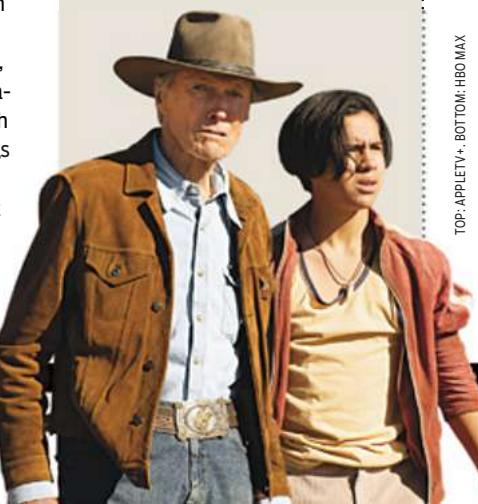

In the executive suite, slimy Cory Ellison (Billy Crudup) is now CEO but fears he won't succeed. He spars with new tech wunderkind Stella Bak (Greta Lee), and board chair Cybil Richards (the regal Holland Taylor) could prove problematic too. Leder calls the savvy corporate veteran "a cockroach you can't kill." Would you expect anything else in the cutthroat world of television news? —Kate Hahn

Best Bonding Trip
Cry Macho

FRIDAY, SEPT. 17 HBO MAX

ORIGINAL MOVIE If the definition of "macho" is working in movies at 91 years young, Clint Eastwood owns the word. The four-time Oscar winner directs the moving drama and also stars as lost soul Mike Milo, an ex-rodeo champ who fulfills a promise to help his former boss (Dwight Yoakam) bring his son, Rafo (Eduardo Minett, below, with Eastwood), home from Mexico. On the journey, "Mike teaches Rafo guy stuff, like 'never touch another man's vehicle,'" says cowriter Nick Schenk. "Rafo reminds Mike how a person's life has many paths." As for being macho? "Mike says, 'Don't let it define you, because ultimately it's for show,'" reveals Schenk. "Honor and truth aren't the same." —Jim Halterman

Coolest Adventure
Dan Brown's The Lost Symbol

THURSDAY, SEPT. 16

PEACOCK

ORIGINAL DRAMA Based on Dan Brown's novel about symbologist Robert Langdon, this title was planned as a movie in the Tom Hanks franchise (The Da Vinci Code, etc.). Instead, producers adapted it into a prequel series, with Ashley Zukerman (above, with Sumalee Montano and Rick Gonzalez) as the Harvard professor. "In the book, Langdon is a seasoned adventurer," says exec producer Dan Dworkin. "Here, he finds himself in the middle of a mystery for the first time."

The game's on when, in order to rescue his mentor (Eddie Izzard) from kidnappers, the novice hero follows cryptic instructions to decipher symbols near D.C. Expect tricky clues, Masonic lore, CIA agendas and chilling antagonists like Mal'akh (Beau Knapp). He is, according to fellow EP Jay Beattie, "someone who is focused on becoming a living god, and who sees the people around him as worthy sacrifices." Yikes! —Leanne Rudolph

Top Genre Mashup
Finding Alice

MONDAY, SEPT. 13 ACORN TV

ORIGINAL DRAMEDY Who says death is no laughing matter? Hours after Alice (Keeley Hawes, above) moves into the tech-heavy "smart house" designed by her partner, Harry (Jason Merrells), he falls down the stairs to his death. And he never even told Alice how the toilet flushes!

In this six-episode series, the resilient Alice goes through a roller coaster of emotions as she deals with her overbearing family, secrets Harry kept from her and their daughter (Isabella Pappas) and the detectives who find the death suspicious.

Cowriter and director Roger Goldby doesn't see anything odd about injecting dark humor into a bereavement story. He created Finding Alice with Hawes and fellow writer Simon Nye, all of whom met while working on PBS's The Durrells in Corfu, another series about a widowed mother moving on.

"We share a similar sensibility in terms of humor," Goldby says. "None of us wanted to tell a miserable story. We wanted to tell a story that was truthful, but also that had a sense of hope and warmth." —Diane Snyder

BIGGEST TEARJERKER
Last Chance Transplant

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 22

DISCOVERY+*ORIGINAL DOCUSERIES

COVID-19 has driven home the fact that medical professionals are superheroes. This four-hankie series from Good Morning America's Robin Roberts (below) showcases "the incredible work they are doing all the time," says Wendy Douglas, TLC's vice president of production. At Vanderbilt University Medical Center in Nashville, we meet the dedicated members of the elite organ transplant teams and the patients who need life-saving operations. Says Roberts, herself the recipient of a bone marrow transplant, "Their determination is truly inspiring."

Expect a mix of dramatic tension and joy as you follow the six regular folks in need of organs, including Carlos Calloway, a married father with stage 4 kidney disease who receives help from a stranger. Says Douglas, "Getting the call that an organ is available is an incredible moment of hope for the recipient." And a reason for you to get off your couch and cheer. —Linda Malek

Midnight Mass

FRIDAY, SEPT. 24

ORIGINAL THRILLER An isolated island falls prey to evils both human and unholy in this genuinely scary horror drama written and directed by Mike Flanagan (The Haunting of Hill House and The Haunting of Bly Manor). The seven-part tale opens with prodigal son Riley Flynn (Friday Night Lights alum Zach Gilford) returning to his coastal home of Crockett Island after a prison stint for causing a fatal DUI crash. At the same time, the community is visited by Father Paul (Hamish Linklater, above), a new priest filling in for their ailing pastor.

As miracles—or would that be omens?—begin to occur, the locals zealously flock back to church, while Riley, his childhood friend Erin (Kate Siegel, right, who is married to Flanagan in real life) and an ostracized sheriff (Rahul Kohli) begin to suspect they may be witnessing the unimaginable...and otherworldly. “It’s about faith versus fanaticism,” teases Siegel, who’s careful to avoid any spoilers. “[This show] is going to drop into people’s laps and they don’t know what they’re going to get.”

Siegel did, though. The story “has been brewing for Mike for almost as long as I’ve known him,” she says. “He’s like, ‘I’m leaving this show behind for my children.’ When they ask him things like, ‘What’s good and evil?’ and ‘What happens when we die?’ he can point to the show and say, ‘This is everything. This is my feeling.’” —Damian Holbrook

On the Verge

TUESDAY, SEPT. 7

ORIGINAL DRAMEDY “Hollywood has always shown women in their forties and fifties as kind of done with life, but that’s not true,” says creator, director and star Julie Delpy. “You could be on the verge of something great...or something terrible.” Such is the case for the four women who populate this dynamic dramedy inspired by Delpy’s real friends.

Each member of the quartet grapples with unique issues: Chef Justine (Delpy) strives to keep her house and restaurant running with little help from her dismissive husband; Ell (Delpy’s cowriter, Alexia Landreau) is a struggling single mom who has three kids with three men; designer

Anne (Elisabeth Shue) is trying to get out from under her rich mom’s influence; and stay-at-home mom and job-seeker Yasmine (Sarah Jones, second from right, with Landreau, Shue and Delpy) lands a gig that leads to a shocking twist.

The opening shot of the pals playing paintball is a metaphor for the struggles the characters (and all modern women) endure. “This world,” says Delpy, “is a battlefield.” —Kate Hahn

Worth

AVAILABLE NOW

ORIGINAL MOVIE What is the value of a human life? It’s a question not easily answered by Kenneth Feinberg (Michael Keaton), a lawyer and mediator appointed to head up the 9/11 Victims Compensation Fund in the wake of the terrorist attacks. This poignant drama based on true events recounts Feinberg’s impossible task to find a fair solution for paying families who lost loved ones in the tragedy. The job “was a hot potato,” says Max Borenstein, who wrote the film based on Feinberg’s 2005 book. “No one wanted to put a dollar label [on the dead].” With good reason. The attorney’s initial formula, which would not result in equal payouts, was widely criticized “and threw [him and his team] into a Solomon-like dilemma,” says Borenstein.

Stanley Tucci (above right, with Keaton) costars as Charles Wolf, a widower and one of Feinberg’s chief critics, who appeals to the well-intentioned bureaucrat’s humanity. “Charles is, in many ways, the hero,” says Borenstein. “It’s his challenge to open Ken’s eyes, to lead with compassion and lead with empathy.” —Jim Halterman

Fierce Glenn Close Performances

Whether she’s playing a vamp (Dangerous Liaisons), a civil rights champ (Serving in Silence: The Margarethe Cammermeyer Story) or going camp (101 Dalmatians), Glenn Close always entertains. Here are three of our favorite film performances, all now streaming on Netflix.

AGATHA CHRISTIE’S CROOKED HOUSE

AIR FORCE ONE

HILLBILLY ELEGY

Close earned her eighth Oscar nomination for disappearing into the role of impoverished but loving “Mamaw.” She becomes a mother figure for her grandson when her drug-addicted daughter (Amy Adams) is too unfit.

What I’m Bingeing: Sex Education

ORIGINAL COMEDY

The Iron Lady would blush if she met Jean Milburn, the sex therapist Gillian Anderson (right) plays on this British gem. After her tour de force as The Crown’s Margaret Thatcher, Anderson returns as the frank doc on the series about Jean and her teen son Otis (Asa Butterfield), who opens an underground sex therapy clinic at school with a pal.

Many shows rely on snarky dialogue, so it’s special to see characters talk openly and with kindness about their insecurities. That’s especially true on the third installment (out September 17), when changes at the school force the students to stand up for each other.

Jean’s pregnancy, meanwhile, makes her realize she has a lot to learn about healthy relationships. Even the therapist needs therapy! —Linda Malek

Pretty Hard Cases

Former Orange Is the New Black inmate Adrienne C. Moore operates on the other side of the law in this Canadian buddy-cop treat. Gruff Toronto drug squad detective Kelly Duff (Moore) and her colleague in the gang unit, rule-following optimist Samantha Wazowski (Meredith MacNeill, below right, with Moore), "are the yin to the other's yang," says exec producer Sherry White. In this lighthearted crime series streaming on Prime's free IMDb TV channel, they blend differing work styles to bring down a common target: a violent drug-dealing street gang. "The stakes are high," says executive producer Tassie Cameron, "but there's always room for fun." (Schitt's Creek alum Karen Robinson, as the jaded commander, is one bright spot.)

Initially antagonistic, the women rub off on each other. "Sam will help Kelly learn to be more vulnerable, and Kelly will help Sam become tougher," says Cameron, adding that the women "are better together...most of the time." —Jim Halterman

Goliath

FRIDAY, SEPT. 24

ORIGINAL DRAMA

The fourth and final season of the legal thriller about psychologically fragile attorney Billy McBride (Billy Bob Thornton, above) is a noir lover's dream. "I had an image of Billy Bob wearing a trench coat standing by the Golden Gate Bridge," says executive producer Lawrence Trilling, who decided to move the action from L.A. to San Francisco following the lawyer's near-fatal shooting. Up north, he reluctantly joins his old pal Patty (Nina Arianda) at a prestigious law firm, where they target a new corrupt Goliath: George Zax (J.K. Simmons), the ruthless CEO of his family's pharmaceutical company, which aggressively markets opioids to agreeable doctors and pharmacies. (Don't miss Simmons' surreal song-and-dance number extolling the drug.)

As in any good noir story, the drama is fueled by several ambiguous characters. Among them? Frank (Bruce Dern), Billy's eccentric neighbor with a surprising connection to the case, and two feuding law firm partners: the cofounder's young widow, Ava (Lenora Crichlow), and his sympathetic daughter, Sam (Jena Malone).

As Billy throws himself into work, he also tries to heal his strained relationships with the women in his life, including his resentful daughter Denise (Diana Hopper). "He begins to understand how much pain his self-absorption has caused," Trilling shares. In the end, he adds, "I think things are looking good for Billy." —Leanne Rudolph

Y: The Last Man

MONDAY, SEPT. 13

ORIGINAL DRAMEDY

Some men may fleetingly dream of being the only guy left on Earth. In reality, it's not much fun for New Yorker Yorick Brown (Ben Schnetzer, above), who, after a strange, sudden cataclysm kills billions of people, is the only surviving human with a Y chromosome. "Yorick is the type of person who wanted to be special his entire life, and now suddenly he is," says exec producer Eliza Clark, "but not in a way he wanted to be. He survived, and he doesn't know why."

The "postapocalyptic dark comedy," as Clark calls the show, is based on a series of award-winning graphic novels that follow Yorick's journey, including his travels to the White House, where his congresswoman mother (Diane Lane) has become president. Trying to keep Yorick's existence hush-hush for his own safety in this chaotic world, she sends him off with a secret agent known as 355 (Ashley Romans) to track down a famous geneticist to research his genes.

But alas, poor Yorick: It's not an easy road. Some want to kill him, and others just want to use him (for procreation). Says Clark, "It's very dangerous for him to traverse this new landscape." Oh, man! —IR

Three Reasons to Watch... The Premise

ORIGINAL ANTHOLOGY Talk about role reversal. B.J. Novak, best known as comically inept Ryan Howard on The Office, has created a powerful series featuring standalone episodes that deal with moral lessons. Here's why you should buy into The Premise, out September 16.

1. The episodes have remarkable emotional range. In one, a white and ridiculously "woke" twenty-something (Ben Platt) finds clear evidence in a case of racial injustice in the background of his own sex tape. In the next, a grieving dad (Jon Bernthal, right) who lost his daughter to gun violence gets a new job: PR director at the National Gun Lobby.

posted online? Or wondered how it would feel to confront your former school bully as an adult? The Premise lets you watch those scenarios play out.

3. The stellar cast. Among those turning in powerful performances: Tracee Ellis Ross as a shrewd attorney, Beau Bridges as a gun aficionado and Lucas Hedges as a sleazy pop star.

—Robert Edelstein

Their journey alternates with other stories, including one revolving around a mysterious, force-field-protected vault on a distant planet that predates the human settlers, including Leah Harvey's Salvor Hardin (above). "This epic takes place over 1,000 years," Harris continues.

"Seldon is the heart and soul." With that kind of power, you can bet the Empire strikes back. —Kate Hahn

Millions of older Americans are rediscovering the joy of walking

Mom is on the move again with her all-new Perfect Walker™!

NEW

Utility Bag, Cane
and Beverage
Holders

For years, I found myself walking less and less. As I got older, aches and pains in my back and legs caused me to stay in my chair, watching TV . . . and watching life go by. My doctor told me to be more active, and I tried. I tried canes, walkers and rollators . . . and I hated them. Shuffling along, hunched over, looking at the ground two feet in front of me – that didn't seem like a fun way to get around. Then, one day, a friend introduced me to the Perfect Walker. Nothing's going to stop me now!

The Perfect Walker is a revolutionary new mobility device that can change your life by changing the way you walk. It enables you to stand upright when you walk – with your spine straight and your eyes looking straight ahead. Your weight is supported by your upper arms and shoulders, some of the strongest parts of your body. Traditional walkers and rollators force you to put the pressure of your body weight on your hands and wrists. You push them in front of you, looking at the ground instead of where you are going. The Perfect Walker moves with you, with your body perfectly aligned and your feet free to walk in a normal fashion. Its easy adjust height system allows it to be the perfect fit/height for anyone from 4'9" to 6'2" and supports up to 300 pounds. The new Stand Assist™ handles enable you to distribute your weight across your arms and shoulders, not your hands and wrists to help reduce back, neck, wrist pain and discomfort. It features comfortable arm pads, hand brakes, a fold-down seat and storage area with a backrest. It's built with aircraft-grade aluminum to be sturdy yet lightweight, and its sleek design and oversized wheels make it perfect for tight spots in the house or walking in the yard.

Why spend another day bent over and shuffling around – or worse yet, plopped in front of the TV all day. Pick up the phone and take back your life. Call now.

HOROSCOPE

BY YASMIN BOLAND

VIRGO (Aug. 23–Sept. 22) Now is a potential litmus test for your most important relationships. On the one hand, if you're involved with someone who is shady, they are likely to act even shadier. On the other hand, if you are feeling all loved up, it could be true love!

Libra (Sept. 23–Oct. 22)

This time could be pretty intense. Don't get into any upsets if you can possibly avoid it. It could all go horribly wrong if you start to argue now. That doesn't mean you have to be a simpering wallflower, though. Use all your Libra charm if someone is annoying you.

Birthday: Caitriona Balfe 10/4/1979

Scorpio (Oct. 23–Nov. 21)

You are in a period of personal growth at the moment. Have you noticed? This time, you have to be extra mindful regarding how you are with the people in your personal life. Try to push through any fears you have about there not being enough love to go around.

Birthday: Jeff Probst 11/4/1961

Sagittarius (Nov. 22–Dec. 21)

Your current challenge, should you choose to accept it, is to pay attention to what happens when you think positively versus when you think negatively. Remember, you are creating your world with every thought. Be careful about negative thoughts to do with romance or cash.

Birthday: Steven Yeun 12/21/1983

Capricorn (Dec. 22–Jan. 19)

You are entering a period of several weeks when you need to go for it professionally. Don't be disheartened if work doesn't seem to be in your favor straight off the bat. You're being pushed to chase your goals. Challenges are just tests from the universe.

Birthday: LL Cool J 1/14/1968

Aquarius (Jan. 20–Feb. 18)

By the time this year is over, you will have taken a few more steps toward being one of the strongest of all the zodiac signs. That said, there could be some challenges to do with love or money. Show the universe (and everybody else) what you're made of.

Birthday: Ed Helms 1/24/1974

Pisces (Feb. 19–March 20)

You essentially have two choices. You can look around, see what inspires you and seek more of that. Or you can allow yourself to fall into a confused or disappointed funk. So what will it be? If you know how to meditate, that will really help now!

Birthday: Millie Bobby Brown 2/19/2004

Aries (March 21–April 19)

You could feel a little bit off now, like you're maybe not quite firing on all cylinders. That's OK. You're moving into a once-every-two-years cycle where you get to see what happens when you cool those Aries jets of yours and slow things down. And breathe out!

Birthday: Jim Parsons 3/24/1973

Taurus (April 20–May 20)

Ouch! Sorry, but that's the sound you could be making if you're not careful. The universe is setting you straight and making you wake up and face facts. If you've been ignoring something at work or in your personal life, you may have to deal with it now.

Birthday: Jerry Seinfeld 4/29/1954

Gemini (May 21–June 20)

There's something you should know. Although life is all about relationships making us better people, in fact, right now, happiness and fulfillment for you is to be found in standing on your own two Gemini feet. So be at least a bit independent, even if you're attached.

Birthday: Laurie Metcalf 6/16/1955

Cancer (June 21–July 22)

The skies are a bit tense, but for once, you are not only not in the firing line, you're actually well-placed to have a pretty good week. In particular, it should be possible for you to turn one really important relationship around. You are super persuasive now!

Birthday: David Spade 7/22/1964

Leo (July 23–Aug. 22)

What do you want when it comes to cash, property and possessions? And how are you doing in terms of your self-esteem? If you can believe in yourself and your worth right now, you could find that you end up attracting more cash and even somehow transform your daily life.

Birthday: Kim Cattrall 8/21/1956

Cheers to A.P. Bio for leaving no kids behind. By giving more screen time to the scene-stealing students of misanthropic teacher Jack (Glenn Howerton) and his hilarious colleagues, Season 4 of Peacock's high-school comedy deserves all the extra credit available.

Cheers to Wicked in Concert

for offering us some Glee. PBS's salute to the Oz-some musical brought together former New Directions powerhouses Alex Newell and Amber Riley (right), as well as frequent Glee guests—and O.G. Wicked stars—Kristin Chenoweth and Idina Menzel. Mr. Schue would be so proud.

Jeers to Nine Perfect Strangers'

one imperfect wig. Star Nicole Kidman (above) is absolutely riveting as manipulative guru Masha in Hulu's self-help drama, but our chakras are being completely thrown off by the messy mop she's been saddled with.

Cheers to Chapelwaite

for being scary good. Based on a Stephen King short story, Epix's 'Salem's Lot prequel starring Adrien Brody (left) as a 19th-century New Englander facing racist villagers and ravenous vampires is a slow-burn thrill packing horrors both supernatural and surprisingly timely.

Cheers to Lucifer's last stand.

Thank you, Tom Ellis (right), Netflix and Lucifer's cast and crew for giving us what we truly desired: a helluva fun final season with some heavenly closure.

Jeers to all of these not-so-limited series.

Forget fake news, TV is all about the fake-out now: Bryan Cranston's Showtime drama Your Honor and HBO's hotel satire The White Lotus were each hailed as one-and-done events, but now they're both coming back. How about we just call them shows and stop with the limitations?
